COMMENT OF

The China War Problem

U partisans wish for anything else but a Formosa Straits ceasefire, leading to specting the future Formosa. The reasons are plain enough. Only by direct American Intervention can the China coast falanda be prevented eventually from falling to the Chinese Communists; only by active considering success; and only by being journal reported today, prepared to chaffenge the! United States could Comvading Formosa.

These are perfectly obvious World War III. It is this to be the best action to be Indo-China, taken in resolving the problem of the China civil war and its effect on Formosa.

The British viewpoint, scoffed In that event he would sucat in many quarters, nonetheless possesses its merits. label "appeasement" is just as ridiculous as describing the Eisenhower Administration's attitude as "warlike." Both. countries are working for the sume end — a negotiated settlement either through the offices of the United Nations Security Council or through diplomatic channels.

And America has given at least tacit approval to private diplomatic efforts to find ways of bringing the China shooting war to an end. This in itself should to strengthen the efforts now reported to be under way in Moscow to find a practical formula on which negotiations could be started. If, as latest reports indicate, Russia appreciates the danger of allowing retained," events to drift in the Formosa Strait, there is reason to hope that something useful will transpire from the diplomatic talks now dimensions.

New York, Mar. 4. Britain today told the United Nations she was "deeply disturbed" about recent border fighting between Israel and Egyptian forces in the Gaza strip.

Sir Pierson Dixon, permanent British delegate at the United Nations said at a special meeting of the Security Council that prima facie evidence pointed to the fact that a premeditated attack by Israeli forces on Egyptian territory had taken place. This attack had resulted in very serious loss of life.

Without any discussion the Council quickly adopted an agenda comprising Egyptian and Israeli charges and counter-charges of responsibility for the fighting in the Gaza strip, the Egyptian territory on Israel's southern border.

No other watch has these "talking points"

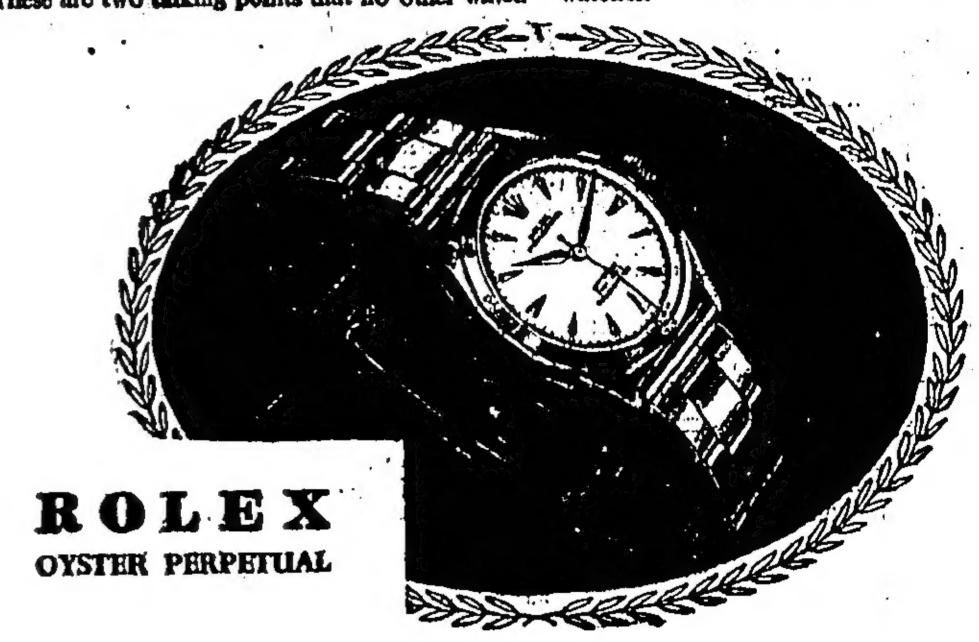

waterproof, self-winding wrist-watch only I came into being through two great advances, both made by Rolex of Geneva. The first was the development of the famous Oyster case that permanently safeguards the movement from dust, damp or water.

The second was the evolution of the Rolex Perpetual "rotor" mechanism that keeps the watch automatioally wound. Not only does this save the trouble of winding; it also ensures an even tension on the mainspring and gives the movement a constant accuracy unattainable in'a hand-wound watch.

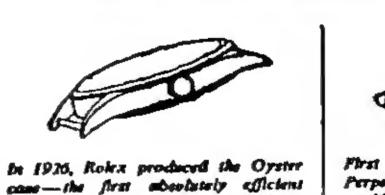

These are two talking points that no other watch can provide. They are powerful and compelling. Well presented, they will convince any man who wants a really good watch that a Rolex Oyster Perpetual is what he is looking for.

Rolex advertising and promotion has been telling the story of these Rolex inventions for several years. They are dramatically illustrated by the famous Rolex testimonials appearing in current advertising. Rolex display material carries the story through into the shop. No wonder she's the blushing bride, when by ancient custom the marriage bed is hauled out into the street.

OUIET WEDDING? NOT ON THIS SUNSHINE ISLE

By J. L. Hays

TUST by way of loving emphasis, the Cyprus village bride gets her toes tradden on by the groom when the officiating priest gives her to, understand that it will henceforward be her duty to leve and obey....

I have been made aware of this truth because Yanni, a sort of odd-job man about my Cyprus home, has just got himself married to a bright-eyed, darklypretty little girl called Soula, from the same village.

Indeed, I am still recovering from the week-leng bout of wine and song involved -ending only when the happy pair were compelled by their hilarious relatives and acquaintances each to consume a roasted white dove as a token of a peaceful married life.

Although I gather that Yanni and Soula have been exchanging soft and knowing looks ever since they were children, the austere conventions of their village were strictly observed.

A. w. tor instance, simply more than a girl's good using is worth to be seen acourting.

Thus Yanni admits that he and his sweetbear, exchange time as their formal daily greetmust be taken belong school and the day when, as they bound, he informed his parents that he wished to marry. Then followed at Soula's house a high coshormal meeting between the parents. Only when it was established that the much was indeed considered designible by the two parties most intimately concerned did the all important negotiations follow on the rubiret, of Soula's dowry. For here a bilde as still expected to bring a downy accounty hard each cattle, sheep, linenor a house Indeed, a poor girl, however attractive still lives under the threat of enferce to pinsterhood. And pour parents still begger themselves in their efforts to do their duty by their unmarried daughters, Yanni had no inhibitions about informing me that Soula was providing their home!

Various, goings-on, traditional and thoroughly testing the happy pair's 'aplomb, began a week before the actual service. First Yanni and Soula were compelld to be witnesses of the public mixing of the wedding ment resi, a mash of mutton and wheat, early on the Monday morning,

They shuffled their feet self-consciously as village girls, wearing gay head-scarves, chanted and sang as they ground the whear in the community mill and the elders supervised the chopping up of the mutton.

On the Wednesday, we drove to the village again to watch one of Yanni's ten combari, or best men, performed the "Dance of the Bridegroom's Clothes," He watched anxiously as the dancer stamped and gyrated in the dust to tinny mandolin music while balancing on his doner-tips, waiter-style, a big copper tray braring the precious new wedding suit and

But for the poor little Soula, evasive of eye and brightly flushing, even sterner tests came later in the week-when her commera, or bridesmaids (also numbering ten) similarly "danced" her bridal gown . . . and a sharpeved and wise-cracking crew of married women conducted the "spreading of the mattress" ceremony,

After the heavyly-bearded village priest had blessed the bedding (dragged out into the street for the occasion), and the women had sorted the wool stuffing into long strips and rearranged them while moving over and around the mattress in the Sign of the Cross, the villagers proceeded to enjoy themselves and mostly at Soula's expense

As mandolfris and violins squealed, museular married women picked up the heavy mattress by its corners and "danced" it . . then seized an infant, conveniently available, and rolled it about the mattress amid laughter, applause and shouted good wishes.

Silver coins were later carefully sewn into the bedding and on it were laid the wedding gifts -with the parents of the happy pair heading the queue of well-wishers,

Yet, solemn of face and fixed of gaze, Yanni looked much the same as any other bridegroom when he marched with his bride between the lines of coumbart and coumera, suddenly subdued, into the village church. And Soula, her eyes sparkling softly in the light of the candles we all held, looked-and

The Glamour Secret?

NE of the few glamorous women in the world has arrived in London ... Soraya of Persia, the Queen who looks like a film

What makes for glamour in a woman and why is it so rare today?

IT IS NOT just physical beauty - but rather an illusion of beauty and grace. Many classic beauties are notorious bores.

IT IS NOT just sex appeal. Something far more restrained and veiled than displayed by Miss Dors and Miss Monroe.

IT IS NOT a question of brains-but rather the kind of intelligence that has proved a diplomatic asset to women like Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce.

IT IS NOTHING to do with patural simplicity. The lady-like Grace Kelly style may be the current fashion, but to me it is uninspiring, like a bread and butter diet.

It is partly vitality, but not the bursting animal high spirits of Judy Garland or Betty Hut-

Wanted—A Captain For The British Rugger Team

The four Home Rugby Unions, England, Ireland. Scotland and Wales, have submitted their final nominations for the British team to tour South Africa this summer. Now the International Board in Dublin must cut the list to thirty-the number needed for the trip.

But the prime task facing the four selectors—one from each Union—for their meeting on March 18 is to choose a captain. No country, I understand, has yet suggested a possible.

Weakened Pandas May Not Hold The Braves Tomorrow

With the Softball League schedule going into the young cricketers. last stretch, all preliminary rounds will be completed this week-end. Starting next week all the scheduled games will be of interest and importance. This week, however, the main Senior "A" League fixture will be a first class game. Opposed will be the League-leading Pandas Aces and the hard-hitting Braves. Both sides are well known for their tight defence and dynamic batting power.

Pandas Aces, though they have never been lucky in League competitiom are held in high esteem by other teams for their ability on the field and their fine sportsmanship. They are regarded by all the Senior "A" Teams as the toughest team to beat. Though at present they are leading together with the Saints, their backbone players, Y. S. In the Ladies' Loop, Wahoos Aces and Bees will meet for the second time and the more experienced Aces are expected to win. The latter will play another game with Overseas Ladies in the afternoon and are favoured to score anvictory. Collects Aces will play the Pandarettes in a doubleheader on Saturday. The latter, with more experienced players, should be able to walk away victorious.

"LEG GUARD"

While English schools in the Colony are doing their best to encourage schoolboys to take an active interest in cricket, the Colony's Cricket Clubs will have to look elsewhere for "new blood" to replace the old stalwarts who have been keeping the Clubs' colours flying for years.

In my rounds talking to cricketers and officials there is a cry for "new blood" everywhere. Veterans who rightly should take a back scat are still in the field merely because there has been a lack of replacements, Plot-Hatching, Nest-Feathering, Mud-Slinging . . . And WORSE!

I. M. MacTAVISH

Wherever one turns these days one hears stories of intrigue, plothatching, nest-feathering and worse . . . . especially if the subject of discussion happens to be soccer.

There are two possible reactions to such talk. Either one swallows the whole thing and passes it on with suitable embellishment; discounts the story and adopts a convenient ostrich posture; or associates smoke with fire and decides to give each tale just as much credence as its matter and teller warrants..... and then go ahead and try to verify it or prove it to be utterly untrue.

In the last week I have heard ment being dished out to playposed to be happening behind ; quit, according to the book, the scenes that it is sometimes hard to decide whether power individual and collective wealth, or a spirit of helpfulness to the game is the one that predominates in many circles.

Some months ago I suggested that the Hongkong Football with other interests, From current happenings I am convinced that the 'trial' is not lieve that only the restraining moderate individuals has kept things from boiling over long

Several people have suddenly cration stating that it is in a shown a desire for power and if only one half of the current stories are true then no election will ever have been fought with n greater will to win at any cost than the next one for the ! Chairmanship of the Hongkong Football Association.

Those folks who see the HKFA only as a body sponsoring amateur soccer will probably think that what is going on is very strange, , and on the surface it is . . , very much so.

NO MYSTERY

But netually there is no mystery about the whole thing. Soccer is the most popular and cleared up now before other, certainly the greatest moneyearning sport in the Colony .... but the matter goes very much deeper than that. It is a sport that by reason of its importance places a great deal of prestige, responsibility and power in the hands of high officials connected with it. Such power, wisely and well used, can only benefit the sport; misused it can do irreparable damage.

It is surely significant therefore that planning for the Chair- games listed for this week-end:manship of the Association has started already when the present holder of the position still has almost half his tenure to complete....and I agree with those who say that the present goings-on are an open insult to that gentleman.

When Mr C. S. Wang took up his office as successor to Mr Jack Skinner he had no dejusions about the difficulties that lay ahead of him, and I am sure that those folks who have an carnest interest in the advancement of football will agree that he has tackled the job with Studium at 4.30 p.m. eredit to himself and with an honesty of purpose that is to be admired.

The court again heard state witness Willem Manoch, who stated under oath that arms, ammunition and other supplies for armed gangs had been brought by small boats from Tandjong Prick, Djakanta's harbour, or by means of speedboats near shore.

Manoch, who at that time was in the Dutch colonial armed service, had personality witnessed these activities. He said at one time "we rode in a power wagon to the barracks of the Notherlands military mission in Diakarta where we loaded a number of sacks of weapons and took them to the hangar of the United States Embassy aircraft which stood ready for take-off there."

The rest of the hearing was used by defence counsel cross-examine Manoch, pointing to contradictions in his testimony.-Reuter.
